

Drawing our Community Closer Together: Temple Israel Center's Facebook Page

Temple Israel Center has officially entered the age of social networking!

The Temple's Communications Committee has been working for months to devise an effective and enjoyable new way for our community to connect. We hope this Facebook page becomes as strong and dynamic as the community in which we live. The journey into this world has just begun, and we need your participation and suggestions.

Post your favorite Pesach or other recipes, share your Jewish memories, share your recent storm blackout story, discuss Jewish topics, post things to sell or give away, ask for help, post pictures of a family event, and more.

Don't know how to set up a free Facebook account or how to join a Group? Instructions below.

Here is our user policy. We ask that you abide by it:

The TIC Facebook is monitored regularly, and we ask that all participants observe our Facebook guidelines: Inappropriate content, for example, threatening or abusive postings, sexually implicit or explicit content, attacks (whether personal or general), gossip, and foul language, will not be tolerated. Discussion of synagogue professionals and volunteers, while appropriate, should be raised through other channels. However, constructive feedback about synagogue events is appropriate. All decisions on admissions to the site and on disallowing content or access is in the discretion of the administrators. This site is being established subject to an evaluation period.

Content posted here should not be forwarded, or copied and shared outside of the Facebook without the poster's (and others referenced in the posting's) permission. Never post anything online that you would not want everyone to see. Never assume the privacy settings are perfect. Facebook has had security breaches that allowed unauthorized users to see private photos and information.

Thank you for helping to make our community (and online community) a warm, vibrant and welcoming place.
