Underlying many of the 613 commandments is the call to create and sustain a healthy regenerative world that supports those alive today and those who will come after us tomorrow. This is yishuvo shel olam — establishing and supporting a livable world. Yishuvo shel olam is a call that responds to the urgency of the moment and is as essential as its better-known partner tikkun olam.

Rabbi Avram Reisner is rabbi emeritus of Chevrei Tzedek Congregation in Baltimore, MD. He has served on the Committee on Jewish Law and Standards for over 25 years.

Rabbi Nina Beth Cardin is a community rabbi who works at the intersection of faith and sustainability.

Rabbi Cardin and Rabbi Reisner are co-authors of the teshuvah on sustainability passed unanimously in December 2019 by the Committee on Jewish Law and Standards.

Program is free. Registration is required.
